Dear District Court Judge,

Microsoft should not be punished in any way whatsoever. It should be honored and congratulated. At the least, the government should apologize to Microsoft for persecuting---yes persecuting---that company.

I have been appalled at the government's treatment of one of our most productive enterprises. We should be honoring Microsoft for good work, for raising our standard of living, for increasing employment, for widening the circle of job opportunity, for offering at fair market value products that enhance our lives, for continually expanding our ability to work and play. Microsoft extends each of our lives in countless ways. Microsoft doing its business in freedom and without government interference is in my self-interest, as it is in yours and each US citizen's.

I do hope that the Antitrust laws will be abolished completely. They work only to destroy our country and its economy.

Sincerely,
Sylvia Bokor
